

A new Song sung by Mrs. HUDSON in the Play call'd RICHMOND-HEIRESS as it was lately acted at the Theatre Royal. The words by Mr. DURFEY.

Stuborne Church Devission, folly and Ambition, caus'd with great Derision, poor Englands sad Condition: Princis leave their Stations, by strange abdications, New ones come to ease us, Yet nothing ere can please us; happy's the man then y^e shuns the great, That's pleasring himself in a Rurall state, With ease and content in a sweet retreat a - voids all Sars and Faction in his small Dominion, vents no false opinion's, Nor Deserts y^e true for Papist or Socinian; But sitts down with his freinds a round, whilst y^e glasse is crown'd, & y^e healths a bound, to the King & Queen, y^e bast in towne; The Fleet or Armies Action argues still with reason. Speak nor hears no treason, Nor arraigns y^e sence of five hundred head's to please one; Plantiff or Defendance, nere get his Attendance, He wishes well to all that are at Whitehall But he Loves no court dependance Bookes admires when witty, good Music and a ditty: And takes a Spouse to Adorne his house, thats rich & kind and pretty, Merry, merry, merrily discards all sorrow, warrily does never never lend nor borrow, Gennerously entertaines his freind's to day And is the same to Morrow.

The Grand Bass.
